Chernobyl 20 Years Later

“Chernobyl 20”, a documentary film by Yelena Zmushko, is about search for truth and how it is difficult to find. Truth is difficult to find not only in the official data, in the cabinets of the governmental officials but also in the local cemetery and overcrowded oncological centers located outside of big cities in Belarus. Also, it is painful to talk to relatives about the Chernobyl accident who think that one does not need to remember something that he or she cannot change.
